NETA Brookline begins recreational marijuana sales

New England Treatment Access opened as the first marijuana shop in Greater Boston Saturday morning.

The first medical dispensary for recreational cannabis sales in the Greater Boston area is also the first in walking distance to the T, which is how most of the 100 shoppers arrived for the grand opening on Saturday.

In addition to its Northampton store, New England Treatment Access (NETA) began recreational sales at its Brookline location soon after regulators approved a final license for NETA to launch, according to the Boston Herald.

Evan Smith, who lives up the street from the dispensary, wasn't expecting approval to sell recreational pot so quickly. "This pretty much surprised me, especially in Brookline, which is notoriously strict."

Amanda Rositano, a compliance officer from NETA, said the goal is to work closely with communities. "One of the key things that we have really been focused on is the fact that our patients will always be our No. 1 priority, so while we're taking on this new large group of customers we have implemented several measures to make sure that the experience for our patients actually isn't negatively impacted." TERRY MOSELEY

Apple's media ambition: Original shows, news subs

2 Apple Inc. is expected to unveil a new video-streaming service and a news subscription platform at an event on Monday at its Cupertino, Calif., headquarters. The tech giant has long hinted at a planned video service, spending $2 billion in Hollywood to produce its own content and signing major stars such as Oprah Winfrey. Sources familiar with the matter earlier told Reuters that the service may resell subscriptions from CBS Corp., Viacom Inc. and Lions Gate Entertainment Corp.'s Starz, among others, as well as Apple's own original content. The TV service is expected to launch globally, an ambitious move to rival services from Netflix Inc. and Amazon.com Inc.'s Prime Video. Apple's App Store, where the service is likely to be distributed, is currently available in more than 100 countries.

Brexit up in the air as May makes third attempt at deal

3 British lawmakers will seek to use a vote on the government's next steps on Brexit on Monday to wrest control of the process and try to find a majority for an alternative way forward that would break the parliamentary deadlock. Britain had been due to leave the European Union on March 29, but after Prime Minister Theresa May's exit deal with Brussels was rejected twice by parliament, she agreed a delay to Brexit in talks with the E.U. on Thursday. Now a departure date of May 22 will apply if parliament rallies behind the prime minister and she is able to pass her deal. If she fails, Britain will have until April 12 to offer a new plan or decide to leave the E.U. without a treaty. May has said she hopes to hold a vote on her deal this week, but hinted on Friday that she might not do so if there was not enough support for it to be passed.

Record river flooding begins to recede in Kansas

4 Record flooding along the Missouri River that left death and destruction in three Midwestern states appeared to have crested on Sunday in the Kansas City area without causing major damage and continued to move downstream, local officials said. Although the surge had begun to recede in Kansas City, Missouri's largest city, a number of riverfront roads remained flooded and city residents were urged to conserve water to help utility crews cope with the deluge. Officials of two small Missouri waterfront communities just outside Kansas City, Riverside and Parkville, which had been bracing for flooding, said early on Sunday that the worst appeared to be over. "The good news is the river has crested and is now dropping," the Riverside Fire Department said on Twitter. "All businesses open," the city declared on Twitter.

US Attorney General William Barr releases summary of Mueller report

DOJ says principal conclusions show no collusion.

Special Counsel Robert Mueller found no evidence of collusion between President Donald Trump's campaign team and Russia, and did not present enough evidence to warrant charging Trump with obstruction of justice, U.S. Attorney General William Barr said on Sunday.

In a major political victory for Trump, who quickly hailed the announcement as "complete and total exoneration," Mueller's nearly two years of investigation ended with a finding that no one in Trump's campaign "conspired or coordinated with the Russian government," according to a summary of Mueller's findings.

The long-awaited report into whether Trump's campaign colluded with Russia to help the Republican defeat his Democratic opponent, Hillary Clinton, marked a major milestone of his presidency as he prepares for his 2020 re-election battle. But Democratic opponents made clear that it would not end their political assault against him.

U.S. President Donald Trump. REUTERS

Mueller himself did not reach a conclusion on whether Trump broke the law by interfering with the various probes into the 2016 election that have cast a pall over his presidency, but presented his evidence to Barr to make a determination.

Many of Trump's opponents had accused the president of obstructing the Russia probe when he fired former FBI Director James Comey in 2017.

In a decision quickly attacked by Democrats, Barr, a Trump appointee who took office last month, and Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein concluded that the evidence did not justify bringing obstruction charges, according to the Justice Department's four-page summary.

Barr quoted Mueller as writing in his report on the issue of possible obstruction of justice: "While this report does not conclude that the president committed a crime, it also does not exonerate him."

U.S. House of Representatives Speaker Nancy Pelosi and Senate Democratic leader Chuck Schumer said in a joint statement that the fact that Mueller had not cleared Trump on the obstruction issue "demonstrates how urgent it is that the full report and underlying documentation be made public without any further delay."

U.S. Senate Intelligence Committee Chairman Richard Burr, a Republican, said Barr should release as much of Mueller's report as possible.

It remained unclear, however, how much more would be made public.

"It's a shame that our country had to go through this," Trump told reporters before boarding Air Force One to return to Washington from Florida. "This was an illegal takedown that failed. And hopefully, somebody's going to be looking at the other side."

Barr's summary said Mueller found no evidence that the Trump campaign coordinated with Russia, despite "multiple offers from Russian-affiliated individuals" to help them.

The closure of the special counsel's probe, while offering a potential political boost for Trump, does not mark the end of legal woes for Trump and people close to him.

Other investigations and litigation are focusing on issues including his businesses and financial dealings, personal conduct, charitable foundation and inaugural committee. REUTERS

Netflix's Mötley Crüe biopic "The Dirt" shows the notorious nature and extreme talent of the band.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

We have a few musicians in our time that are a bit notorious for being, let's say, larger than life. But none compare to over-the-top, infamous '80s rock band Mötley Crüe.

The L.A.-based group was formed in the early 1980s and took the world by storm with their antics, music and overall presence. When the 2001 autobiography "The Dirt: Confessions of the World's Most Notorious Rock Band" came out, fans were stunned at the honesty and all the stories that were included — so much so that the book was made into a movie.

Jeff Tremaine and Netflix brought "The Dirt" to life and signed on Douglas Booth, Iwan Rheon, Colson Baker (a.k.a. Machine Gun Kelly) and Daniel Webber to star as Nikki Sixx, Mick Mars, Tommy Lee and Vince Neil. "The Dirt" was released on Netflix on March 22, and the film is a roller coaster ride, to say the least — but also massively entertaining.

Iwan Rheon sat down with Metro to talk about the film, how he took on the role of Mick Mars and how Mötley Crüe truly is the most notorious rock band in the world.

It took a few years for "The Dirt" to be made; some production companies wanted the story to be "cleaned up a bit," but the band was adamant that the story be told the right way. They were never censored onstage or in life, so why should the movie be?

"It's all written down in the book, so you've gotta tell that story," says Rheon. "It was a different era, a different time. Things in the '80s were crazy — it was a wild decade, and they wanted it to seem authentic. They wanted to keep it as close to the book as possible, so that's probably why it took so long."

The actors playing the Crüe also wanted to keep their performances as authentic as possible.

"We worked really hard. We spent about three or four weeks in rehearsals working on the live performances and studying the videos of their performances, trying to find all of their little moves and replicating it as emphatically as possible," says Rheon. "One day, Tommy came to the set and he was watching what we were filming. He was so excited about it — that really gave us the confidence to go forward and to know we were on the right track and doing the right thing."

Rheon got to chat with a few members of the band, and although he didn't get to meet his onscreen persona, Mick Mars, in person, he was able to delve into the mind of the guitarist.

"I didn't actually get to meet Mick, but I spoke to him on the phone. He was really cool. We talked a lot about amps and guitars, basically. And then his wife made me a replica of a T-shirt that he used to wear and sent it to me."

Fans can catch a glimpse of the home-

Iwan Rheon as Mick Mars.
ALL PHOTOS JAKE GILES
METRO/NETFLIX

made T-shirt in the biopic; the 33-year-old actor filmed a few scenes in it.

"I was focused on him and who he was, and you know, his sort of function in the weird sort of family that they are. He's a little bit older than the rest of the guys. He has a lot more experience and lived a whole sort of life before meeting the guys, where the others are more young and care-free."

"So I think he was the wiser of the group. He definitely had a different energy to him. But I just tried to play him as truthfully as I could from what I read in the book. I think the key to him is that he's such a great, passionate musician — it's all about the music for him. All he wanted to do was be a guitarist in a band."

"The Dirt" is unfiltered and unafraid: It shows the darkest moments the band experienced, including Nicki Sixx's overdose that literally killed him for a few minutes before being resuscitated; Vince Neil's car accident that did result in a passenger death; drug use;

sexual exploits; and a lot of raunchy, reckless behavior. As dirty, gritty and outrageous as it seems, that's what actually happened. It would be a sin if the story were told in any other way.

As notorious as the Mötley Crüe is, the band did truly make history for their musical talent just as much as their naughty antics. "In many ways, they came out in this music scene that was quite minimalistic. At the time it wasn't about the show, it was kind of about the music and the aggression and keeping it quite simple while doing live performances," says Rheon. "They sort of came out and turned that on its head. They were doing stadium performances in smaller venues and that made them notorious in their own way."

"The Dirt" isn't a story with a happy ending or a lot of fluffy life lessons, but it is real. The biopic isn't meant to be a "feel-good" film, it's all about the music, the band and how history was made by four musicians who at the time were unafraid of consequences.

Gronk calls it a career

Gronkowski will go down as one of the greatest and most popular Boston athletes of all time.

MATT BURKE
matthew.burke@metro.us

The Patriots were the most buttoned-down organization in professional sports before April 23, 2010.

That all changed in an instant when a goofy dude from Buffalo stormed the NFL Draft stage and started head-butting his brothers.

Rob Gronkowski will be remembered for many things, including being arguably the greatest tight end in the history of pro football, but the word most synonymous with his Patriots career will be: FUN.

Gronk retired from the NFL Sunday night via a post on Instagram:

"It all started at 20 years old on stage at the NFL Draft when my dream came true, and now here I am about to turn 30 in a few months with a decision I feel is the biggest of my life so far," Gronkowski wrote. "I will be retiring from the game of football today. I am so grateful for the opportunity that Mr. Kraft and Coach Belichick gave to me when drafting my silliness in 2010. My life experiences over the last

9 years have been amazing both on and off the field. The people I have met, the relationships I have built, the championships I have been a part of, I just want to thank the whole New England Patriots organization for every opportunity I have been given and learning the great values of life that I can apply to mine. Thank you to all of the Pats Nation around the world for the incredible support since I have been a part of this first-class organization. Thank you for everyone accepting who I am and the dedication I have put into my work to be the best player I could be. But now it's time to move forward and move forward with a big smile knowing that the New England Patriots organization, Pats Nation, and all my fans will be truly a big part of my heart for the rest of my life. It was truly an incredible honor to play for such a great established organization and be able to come in to continue and contribute to keep building success. To all my current and past teammates, thank you for making each team every year special to be a part of. I will truly miss you guys. Cheers to all who have been part of this journey, cheers to the past for the incredible memories and HUGE cheers to the uncertainty of what's next."

There has been great speculation as to exactly what's next for Gronk as he has dabbled in acting (in those weird Tide Pods commercials) and has already stepped foot in a pro wrestling ring (FYI, WrestleMania 35 is in two weeks at MetLife Stadium, home of the Jets and Giants).

well have gone down as a top 10 NFL player of all time had it not been for his significant injury issues.

His best season came in just his second year in the league as he caught 90 balls for 1,327 yards and 17 touchdowns in 2011. That was the last season in which he played a full 16 regular-season games.

Gronkowski had three 1,000-plus-yard receiving campaigns after that (2014, 2015 and 2017) but injuries and missed games tempered many of those numbers.

Number 87 was used primarily as a blocking tight end and excelled in that role this past season, but he did come up with the biggest play in the Patriots' Super Bowl win over the Los Angeles Rams this past February.

His diving, 29-yard catch from Tom Brady in the fourth quarter put the Patriots at the Rams' 2 and allowed them to score the only touchdown of the game.

Gronkowski finishes his career as a:

3-time Super Bowl champion

4-time First team All-Pro

5-time Pro Bowler

The former University of Arizona star has the most NFL seasons with 1,000-plus receiving yards by a tight end with four and holds virtually all NFL post-season receiving records by a tight end.

Bruins set to face Lightning in potential playoff preview

The Bruins are a streaky bunch, for sure. Since a 2-1 shootout loss at St. Louis on Feb. 26, they've won six in a row followed by three losses in a row, and now another four Ws in consecutive order.

The best team in the NHL this year is also prone to a good streak as the Tampa Bay Lightning had a 10-game win streak in February and a seven-game win streak going in March, until it was interrupted by the Blues on Saturday.

The Lightning almost always rebound well from a defeat, so the Bruins will need to be on their game when they play at Tampa tonight (7:30 p.m. NESN). This will be the third time this season that the B's and Lightning will lock horns, with each team having won one earlier this season. The Bruins earned the more recent win back on Feb. 28 at the Garden, when the Black and Gold lit the lamp three times in fewer than three minutes in the third period to grab a 4-1 win.

This game is more important for the B's as they're still jockeying for home ice despite wrapping up a playoff berth on Saturday night in a 7-3 win over Florida.

"It was a big win for us in clinching the playoffs," Zdeno Chara told NESN. "In the new hockey [atmosphere] it's not easy. You can see every night teams are battling for every point to get into the playoffs. It's a grind. So if you don't play consistently and strong and well throughout the whole year, it's going to catch up. And then you have to gain ground at the end."

Saturday was a big day for Chara as he signed a contract extension to return to the Bruins next season and he also netted his 200th career goal.

"It's hard to put into words but I dedicate that goal to my dad," Chara told NESN. "He brought me to the sport of hockey and he was supportive, always teaching me what to do. The last few weeks he was kind of joking before every game, 'When are you going to score?' But finally it happened and I'm very happy. This goal goes to him."

NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

CITY of BOSTON

NEIGHBORHOOD
DEVELOPMENT
26 COURT STREET
BOSTON, MA 02108
TEL: 617-635-0603

MA DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING & COMMUNITY
DEVELOPMENT
100 CAMBRIDGE STREET
BOSTON, MA 02114

These notices shall satisfy two separate but related procedural requirements for activities to be undertaken by the City of Boston's Department of Neighborhood Development and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Housing and Community Development.

REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

On or about April 10, 2019, the City of Boston, acting through its Department of Neighborhood Development (DND), and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting through the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), will individually submit requests to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for the release of Federal funds through the HOME Investment Partnerships Program pursuant to the authority of Title II of the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act, as amended (42 U.S.C. 12701 et seq.), and for the release of Housing Choice Vouchers Program (HCVP) funds under Section 8 of the Housing Act of 1937, as amended for the following project:

FOUR CORNERS PLAZA:

Four Corners Plaza will be a mixed-use affordable housing development in the Four Corners neighborhood of Dorchester (Boston), developed by Codman Square Neighborhood Development Corporation (CSNDC). The project will be developed on three contiguous parcels producing a total of 31 affordable rental units, 9,920 square feet of ground floor commercial space, and community open space in the back of the property. The project includes two buildings: one four-story, mid-rise building at 10-18 Bowdoin Street, with 28 units, the commercial space, and structured parking on a basement level; and, one building consisting of three townhomes, facing Bowdoin Avenue. The completed project will total 43,019 gross square feet on 0.68 acres of land. The total project cost is approximately $15,256,214, including up to $1,000,000 in federal HOME funds from the City of Boston. The developer anticipates seeking $550,000 in HOME funds and Project Based Vouchers from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT:

The City of Boston has determined for itself and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts concurs that the project will have no significant impact on the human environment. Therefore, an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) is not required. Additional project information is contained in the Environmental Review Record (ERR) on file at the DND Compliance Unit, 26 Court Street, 11th Floor, Boston, MA, or at DHCD, 100 Cambridge St, Suite 300, Boston, MA, 02114, and may be examined or copied weekdays 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., excluding legal holidays.

PUBLIC COMMENTS

Any individual, group, or agency may submit written comments on the ERR to the DND Compliance Unit, 26 Court St, Boston, MA 02108, or to DHCD, 100 Cambridge St, Suite 300, Boston, MA 02114. All comments received by April 9, 2018 will be considered by the City of Boston and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts prior to authorizing submission of a request for release of funds. Comments should specify which notice they are addressing.

RELEASE OF FUNDS

The City of Boston certifies to HUD that Martin J. Walsh, in his official capacity as Mayor, and DHCD certifies Catherine Racer, in her official capacity as Associate Director of Housing Development, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to the environmental review process and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. HUD's approval of the certification satisfies its responsibilities under NEPA and related laws and authorities, and allows the City of Boston and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to use Program Funds.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE OF FUNDS

HUD will accept objections to its release of funds and the City of Boston's and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts' certification for a period of fifteen days following the anticipated submission date or its actual period of the request (whichever is later), only if they are on one of the following bases: (a) The certification was not executed by the Certifying Officer of either the City of Boston or the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; (b) the City of Boston or the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has omitted a step or failed to make a decision of finding required by HUD regulations at 24 CFR Part 58; (c) the grant recipient has committed funds or incurred costs not authorized by 24 CFR Part 58 before approval of a release of funds by HUD; or (d) another Federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR Part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedures (24 CFR Part 58) and shall be addressed to the Environmental Officer, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Thomas P. O'Neill Federal Building, 10 Causeway Street, Boston, MA 02222-1092. Potential objectors should contact HUD to verify the actual last day of the objection period.

Aries Set high standards and cover as much ground as possible. If you know what you are talking about, you'll gain respect and the support you need to get what you want.

Taurus Work quietly behind the scenes. Use your intelligence to overcome obstacles. Change is within reach, but making it happen will require finesse.

Gemini Take care of business without making a fuss. Be open to suggestions, but don't give in if someone is pressuring you to take on the impossible. Personal gains should be your objective.

Cancer If you offer something special or unique, you will get the help you need to make your idea fly. A change will turn out better than anticipated. Keep moving forward.

Leo If you take on too much or engage in indulgent behavior, you won't like the results. Take the high road and project an image that is consistent and discreet.

Virgo Don't put up with anyone playing emotional mind games. Be direct and eliminate chaos and discord from your life. Put your best foot forward and do your own thing.

Libra Get out and do something that will add to your knowledge, skills and experience. Refuse to let situations at home slow you down. Compromise and move on to more enjoyable tasks.

Scorpio Push the envelope when it comes to creative pursuits. Find a way to differentiate yourself from the competition. Dedication and hard work will pay off.

Sagittarius Charm will help you get your way, as long as you don't venture too far from the truth or mislead someone. An emotional matter should be resolved before you make a personal change.

Capricorn Put some muscle behind your aspirations if you want to make progress. Your enthusiasm will gain you support as well as criticism. Don't get angry; use the advice offered to your benefit.

Aquarius Consider what's doable and what isn't. Don't be shy when you need help. Call in favors and get things done. Romance will eliminate tension and stress.

Pisces You'll have some big ideas that will spark interest and put you in the limelight. Before you make unreasonable promises, go over your plans and your budget. EUGENIA LAST
